"The Normal Pulse"

VOL. VI.

LOUISIANA STATE NORMAL, OCTOBER 9, 1919.

NO. 1.

NORMAL OPENS STRONG.

The thirty-fifth fall opening of the Louisiana State Normal School occurred on Sept. 9, 1919. The practice school opened on the 11th, following an institute of the teachers of Natchitoches Parish held in the Model School building.

Many new faces are seen in the faculty and among the students. In appearance, the student body is noticeably more mature than heretofore. This is due to the fact that until this year some of the work in the Normal School has been of high school grade, whereas now all courses of the Normal department are of collegiate grade.

Accordingly, to enter the first term or lowest class today, the applicant must be graduated from an approved Louisiana High School or possess other equivalent requirements.

The attendance in the Normal department this summer is 411, and in the practice school about 500 making a total of more than 900. In the matter of attendance perhaps the most gratifying fact is found in the number of high school graduates who entered Normal for the first time at the beginning of this term. This number is 162. Last summer the number was 134. This makes a total of 296 high school graduates who have entered the Normal in the last four months. It is estimated that nearly 200 under-graduates of the Normal School are now employed in the public schools of Louisiana under War Emergency regulations.

Another satisfactory feature of this past-war session is found in the increasing number of boys that are coming back to Normal. The school now has re-established its football team and expects to make a good record on the gridiron this fall.

An indication of the upward trend of scholarship at the Normal is shown by the fact that the number of teachers holding College degrees is 27, which is the largest on record in the history of the school.

OUT-GOING AND IN-COMING MEMBERS OF FACULTY.

Although we regret having lost many old members of the faculty, we wish to extend a hearty welcome to the new members who have come to take their places.

The out-gone members are as follows: Mr. C. C. Whisenhunt, who is now Superintendent of the Shreveport schools; Mrs. McVoy, who is with the Gulf Division of American Red Cross at New Orleans; Miss Linfield, who is now teaching in Shreveport High; Miss Olive Gunnby; Mr. de Jenoe, who has accepted employment with the Gulf Port Military Academy at Gulf Port, Mississippi; and Miss Gray. Miss C. Alicia Dixon is attending Teacher's College of Columbia University doing graduate work. Miss Regina Zimmerman is away on a year's leave attending the University of Chicago.

The new members are: Robert A. Cummins, B. S., Illinois Wesleyan; M. A., University of Illinois, and Ph. D., Columbia. He has held some very prominent positions in the educational departments of various colleges and universities in the United States; he has received honors in different institutions of learning, and has published a number of books and educational articles in numerous journals and church periodicals.

Miss Alice Lund having done work at the Universities of Chicago and Kansas, also at the Kansas State Normal, comes to us with teaching experience gained at the Illinois Western State Normal, the Agricultural School of N. Dakota, and in the Kansas high schools.

Mr. Bartlow, a graduate of the State University, with his Masters degree comes to us with a number of years of experience as principal of various high schools in the state. He is now principal of our practice

Do You Know

That approximately one out of three young men called in the prime of life to the service of our country were unable to render their maximum service because of physical defects?

And that the vast majority of these defects could have been prevented or corrected by methods which have been well known for years?

Miss Ina Gerett, graduate of Waukeshox, Wis. and Stout Institution, comes to us with teaching experience gained at Reedsburg, Wis., West Allis, Wis., and at Franklinton and Pelican, La.

Mr. William Hanssler, our new teacher of Romance Languages, comes to us from Instituta Pedagogica at Santiago, Chili, from the Washington University at St. Louis, and from Yale University, at the last two of which institutions he has done graduate work. He has traveled extensively in Central America, taught at Yeatman High School, and at Harris Teachers College, St. Louis, and published a number of Spanish text books.

Mrs. A. G. Alexander, formerly well known to the students as Miss Bernice Barnes, is now temporarily filling the position of Miss Keller, the seventh grade critic teacher. Mrs. Alexander is a graduate of the State Normal, having received the faculty representative's honors last winter term. She comes with two year's teaching experience from this state.

Miss Currier comes to us with a Master degree and with a diploma

ENTERTAINMENTS AND TALKS

Dr. Cummins the new Director of the Training School made his debut to the L. S. N. student body on September 20, in a way that has endeared him to all those who had not already had the opportunity of meeting him in the classroom.

Mr. Winstead made a very interesting talk at assembly a few days ago. He related some of the interesting experiences that he had while he and his wife were attending the University of Chicago. In a brief way, he described the University as a whole and then gave fuller discussion of those things which were of most interest to him among which were remarkable athletic feats and musical concerts.

Another very interesting talk was made by Mr. Prather on "Patent Medicines". From the wealth of erudition displayed, we feel confident that Mr. Prather would prove a great success either as the President of a Patent Medicine concern or as Head of an Anti-Patent Medicine Drive.

Mr. Courtright entertained in assembly a few days ago with several violin selections which were enjoyed by all. Those selections were:

1. "At Dawning, I Love You" by Cadmon.
2. "Vininese Melody" by Kreistler.
3. "Liebesfraud" by Kreistler.
4. "La Joie Melee Aux Larmes" by Tirimelli.

On October 2nd the student body and faculty members were delightfully entertained by Miss Greenamy who sang the following selections:

1. "I Bring You Heart's Ease" by Branscombe.
2. "The Dainty Damozelle" by Novello.
3. "Indian Summer" by Cadmon.
4. "The Birthday" by Woodman.

On September 29, J. A. Ducournau, a Normal graduate of the summer class 1912, spoke in assembly in interest of the Salvation Army drive. Mr. Ducournau served in France fifteen months as a first lieutenant in the 129th Field Artillery. He participated in the following operations: with the British at Amiens; in Vosges Mountains on Petite Ballon, Grande Ballon, Metzeral and Geradmer fronts; St. Mihiel offensive; Argonne offensive; on Verdun front; on Sommedien subsector; Conflans (Iron Fields) offensive. While serving in France Mr. Ducournau through experience had direct knowledge of the part that the Salvation

Current Sauce has been issued since 1914, for almost five years by the students of the Louisiana State Normal, under the supervision of faculty members. The students have always been enthusiastic about their paper until the fall term of 1918 when the "flu" epidemic broke in upon all school activities. But even then a few members were able to keep Current Sauce going throughout the school year, although the issues were somewhat irregular. Then too, on account of the illness of some members of the staff—which resulted in poor book-keeping—many of the students failed to get the issues for which they subscribed.

However, after the work of this term was well started, thoughts were again turned to Current Sauce and its publication. The staff was chosen and after consultation with members of the faculty, began their work very willingly and hopefully.

We know that Current Sauce is supposed to be the "Pulse of the Normal" and the voice of the students, and we know also that as the subscriptions stand, we are not able, financially, to publish Current Sauce. Are you going to let your school paper die, after it has been published so long? Are you not willing to help it grow? We cannot believe that you will let it die. You must, can, and will help. We feel sure that each student will subscribe as soon as possible and also contribute his assistance in every way to keep Current Sauce "going", and make it what it should be—a paper worthy of college students.

HAVE YOU?

Have you thought of this as the beginning of a new year for work? Have you decided to make it such?

Have you determined to make every moment count?

These are the questions that many of us are asking ourselves. How are YOU answering them?

This is the beginning of the school year, and we all have returned for work, but are you accomplishing as much as you should? Some of us are, and some of us are not. At any rate, we realize that these are days of great opportunity for young men and women, and we want to be able to grasp the first real chance that comes our way?

Our work every day, no matter how insignificant it may seem to us, is gradually paving the way for OPPORTUNITY yet do you realize that fact?

Every moment of the day counts either for or against us. Let us put forth our best efforts into each moment so as to make the most of our equation, "Time X Efficiency equals the value of the day".

SHACK NEWS.

Several of the boys were in need of first aid after the Normal-Winnfield game. Both Stafford and Norris were cut on the head but will probably recover without serious permanent injury to their good looks.

Toma Williams was hit on the head and went home to rest up from the shock, incidentally to see Mrs. Toma and Toma, Jr.

Mr. Goldberg, the premier dancer of the shack is at home for the week-end. Mr. Buatt would probably be lonesome except for the fact that S. A. K. bestowed a great honor upon him by electing him sergeant-at-arms.

The old men have been spending Saturday afternoons in offering advice to the new as to which is the best society. Those taken in include: E. L. S., Webb, Wyble, Johnson, Owens and Coney; M. C. C., Stafford and Moncla; C. L. C., Pipes and McSwein.

The boys of the club have organized and taken a decided stand for discipline which will insure the keeping of our present privileges and gain us more as we prove ourselves worthy.

SOCIAL AND RELIGIOUS.

Mr. Jewel Hunt of Nacogdoches, Texas was the guest of Misses Pauline and Georgia Bell during the week-end.

Mr. E. W. Moore of Zwolle, La., was the guest of Miss Claudia Pegues on Thursday. This accounts for Claudia's jolly good humor that day.

Miss Zelma Herring received a visit from her mother during the week.

Do you know why Claudia and Laura Pegues were smiling so much Tuesday afternoon? They were visited by Messrs. Willard Hawthorn of Mansfield and E. W. Moore of Zwolle. The two young men turned their new Paige over to the "bunch" with Miss Haupt as chaperone and Miss Pauline Bell as chauffeur. Needless to say the speed limit was disregarded when we say they saw the whole town of Natchitoches in about 13.5 min.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Pegues of Mansfield motored over Sunday in their new Velie Speedster to visit their daughters, Laura and Claudia. The happy family enjoyed a ride to Grand Ecore where they had luncheon.

The Y. W. C. A. has started its work for the year with about sixty new members enrolled.

A "get-together" party was given by the Y. W. C. A. and was greatly enjoyed by all. Sunday night a very interesting program was rendered. One of the most interesting numbers was one given by Miss Borden. Her topic was "Why is the Bible the 'best seller' of all the books in the world?"

The Y. W. C. A. has its regular meetings every Sunday afternoon after lunch in Room 11, Main Building.

"Morning Watch" is held every Tuesday and Friday mornings just after the ringing of the warning bell. All the girls are cordially invited to attend.

The Y. W. C. A. and the Apostleship of Prayer are planning some joint meetings in the near future.

Come to the Y. W. C. A. shop when hungry. A new supply of canned goods and candies has just been received.

The Apostleship of Prayer meets every Sunday morning after breakfast in the Reception Room. All the girls are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Cummins, wife, daughter Eva, and son Russell, are at home in the Whisenhunt property on Amulet St. Eva is taking the Home Economics Course in the Normal and Russell is entering the first and second year of High School.

NORMAL 44—WINNFIELD 0

Normal opened her football season last Friday by defeating the strong Winnfield High team 44-0. This was a decisive victory and over a team which went through the schedule last year undefeated and were claimants of the state high school championship. So the result should go far in raising the stock of Normal in the big games, to come, for the Association championship.

During the first half, Normal used the forward pass and open field runs almost entirely and with success although the team had not yet developed the team work necessary to get the maximum results from this style of play.

But real results were obtained in the second half when the ball was advanced straight through the line almost continuously.

Every back field man went through at will and the ball was constantly advanced for first downs.

On the defensive, the team was a surprise to even the most optimistic supporter. Only once did the visitors make first down and then on a lucky forward pass. The line was impregnable.

To say that any one man starred would be unfair to all the others, as the team worked together in wonderful form, considering the short time it has been playing together.

However, there were several individual plays which stood out over the rest. Stafford's receiving of a long forward pass in the end zone accounted for one of the touch downs. Dunkelman went through the line for several long gains. And Turpin carried the ball, on a perfectly executed end run, from the thirty yard line, for the final touchdown in the last minute of play.

The team gives promise of becoming one of the best ever assembled at Normal. The line has weight and ability to go through or hold as the occasion demands. The backfield is speedy and a good line plunging combination.

There is still a fight on for several of the positions and with prospects of getting another good man or two, the team will be well supplied with subs.

All it needs is the united and "never say die" support of the boys and girls. Give us that; then watch us go.

Those who played against Winnfield were:

Coney—Center.
Strange—Right Guard.
Bordelon—Right Tackle.
Teekel—Right Tackle.
Stafford—Right End.
Norris—Right End and Half Back.
Turpin—Quarter.
Williams—Half.
Hand—Half.
Rogers—Full.

Will a certain demure sixth term girl kindly put us next to how she can think of such perfectly plausible excuses on such short notice? We'd like to acquire the habit.

Louisiana has a most peculiar climate. The little city of Natchitoches was visited by 5 feet, 9½ in. of "Snow" of considerable solidity. Yes SNOW and September too. The most remarkable thing about it is that it has come to stay—Naturally we will have "cold feet".

Army played in alleviating hardships and adding to the comforts of the men composing the American Expeditionary Forces. It was in full appreciation of this personal service spoke. He told of his experience in the Argonne Offensive. When Mr. Ducournau's battery entered the shell-ridden town which was taken during the drive, they had been on the firing line for twenty successive days. As might be expected the men were exhausted and hungry. On one of the buildings was the sign "Hot Coffee and Doughnuts". The men could not believe that there was even as much of heaven as that in the town, but were soon convinced when the Salvation Army lassies came bringing both hot coffee and doughnuts. Mr. Ducournau ended his talk with a plea for liberal contributions to the Salvation Army drive.

On Friday at assembly Miss Newell gave a most interesting account of the "good times" she and Miss Feltus had during their trip to the Pacific coast last summer. From Shreveport they went to Kansas City, the one remarkable fact of the trip being that for once instead of old maid teachers and newlyweds making up the majority of summer travelers, they were now put in the background by returning khaki clad fathers and young men who were yet enjoying the bliss of singleness. From Kansas City they went to Salt Lake City where they stayed for a while, and visited many places of interest. In a brief way Miss Newell gave a description of Salt Lake City, and the famous temple there. After leaving Salt Lake City they went directly to Berkeley University in California, where they attended school. Some of the things of interest there were the Bancroft Library, and Faculty Glade. Another thing of interest was that Miss Feltus made a hit with one of the professors in the University.

A "STORY".

(By Pearl Cockfield.)

It was a beautiful fall afternoon, warm and drowsy like, and every one seemed resting from the labors of the day.

"Let's do something exciting," said Jo, "I'm sick of sitting still in this blessed place."

"Too much trouble," answered one of the group. "Have to let my stew digest."

"Besides all the faculty is turned loose this evening and is poking round looking for trouble," said another.

"C'mon Jo, I'm with you," said Jill jumping up.

"The more danger the better. Let's go to the Club? I'm starving for a sandwich!"

"Now don't be crazy Jill. You're just courting trouble. O I know you've done it before, but there's always just one time too many. No, I'm not a poke—What do you think my idea of fun is any way?"

But I don't want you to get into trouble and you a senior too! Don't you want to have your privileges with me?"

"Yes but I'll be good tomorrow. C'mon Jo!"

And so they started. But they couldn't go down the long walk 'cause there was Mr. Johnson the pres. surveying the work of the mason on the new gate. So after waiting a few minutes and seeing no chance of his leaving for he settled in a more comfortable position, they decided to climb the faculty gate a small one formerly used by members of the faculty as a short cut but now nailed up. It was in full view of Mr. Johnson, but they managed to climb it unseen. And then freedom was so good. Freedom? It was with a ticklish feeling that they walked up the street. For how many of the "keepers" were out enjoying Charlie Chaplin's jokes or Wallace Reed's love making? How many were out for a stroll enjoying cakes and Hershey's at Sam's.

How many would go whizzing by in big old forbidden cars with a little pad ready to record and report all escaped convicts? But then "No venture, no gain". So they walked boldly down "Faculty Avenue" on their way to the Cafe.

"O, let's run—Look! There comes Miss Jenkins and Miss Smith, both with their glasses on too! They're looking at Charley's apples now. Let's turn down this lit' street, it must lead some where!"

So they turned and walked rapidly

'till they came to one of prof.'s sons sitting under a willow tree in the back yard. He helped them find their direction and they pursued their journey onward.

Just as they turned the corner Jill grabbed Jo and pulled her into the shelter of a door way.

"O, there was Miss Samson and I know she'd tell!"

"Why, Jill! She doesn't even board in the club and how does she know we haven't permission? And yonder comes Mr. Sanders, the biggest watch-dog of the place! But look natural and I'll smile at him and he'll think we have permission from Dean."

So, thus they traveled having scores of narrow escapes 'till they reached the cafe. Then they sank into the chairs with a sigh of relief. But O relief! Just at that moment our stopped outside and as they made a dash behind the counter Mr. Johnson and Mr. Sanders walked in! How many beats did their hearts miss?

"Well, Mr. Sanders," said the president as they ordered lunch, "We really have a quiet, dignified senior class this fall. I'm very proud of them. Very few have their names in the black book—It will be very hard to choose the faculty representative this year."

"Have you any choice as yet?"

"Well" answered Mr. Sanders, "I don't know. I think it is a very distinguished class. But if you want my opinion, I should vote for Miss Josephine Clark. She is a refined, dignified young lady. She is very accomplished and trustworthy. I'm sure she would not stoop to break the petty rules which many of the young ladies delight in. She is very eligible for the office, Mr. Johnson and if I have your permission I should like to propose her name at the meeting."

"Certainly, certainly, Mr. Sanders. I am very sure she will take the honor in a very befitting manner. But I do wish she would select her associates with more forethought. Her room mate, for instance, while a girl from a very fine old family, needs a great deal of toning down. Do you not agree?"

But their lunch was brought in, and the subject was dropped for the time being.

After a long, tiresome wait in a cramped position the girls crawled out just as the auto drove off.

"O, Jill, what shall I do? Trustworthy? If I were chosen I could never be faculty rep! Don't you see?" "Trustworthy?" "Dignified?" "What shall I do?"

Jo looked so helplessly lost that Jill went off in a gail of laughter.

"Jo, I think it is the best joke of the year! My dear, dignified, trustworthy, honorable, room mate will you 'select other associates' or will you try your hand at 'toning me down?' "

"You darlin, I wouldn't have you a speck different. You reckon it was my smile that won ole San?"

So laughing and giggling and dodging, they reached the "jail" in safety.
